(b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (b)(7)(E)

(b)(6) (b)(7)(C)

According to the criminal complaint filed in the matter, the defendants are self-proclaimed anarchists and members of the "Black Bloc" group, who traveled together from Florida to the Chicago area in preparation for committing terrorist acts of violence and destruction directed against different targets in protest to the NATO Summit.

Specifically, plans were made to destroy police cars and attack four Chicago Police stations with destructive devices, in an effort to undermine the police response to the subjects' other planned actions for the NATO Summit. Some of the proposed targets included the Campaign Headquarters of U.S. President Barack Obama, the personal residence of Chicago Mayor Rahm Emmanuel, and certain downtown financial institutions. As of May 19, 2012, there is no evidence to suggest they actually carried out the surveillance on the Campaign Headquarters.

A. National Special Interest: ONE

1. (b)(6) (b)(7)(C)

(b)(6) (b)(7)(C)

B. Special Interests: TWO

6. DEMONSTRATIONS:

United States Secret Service policy specifies that unless demonstration groups or individuals participating in a demonstration pose a security threat to USSS protectees, such demonstrators are to be treated as members of the general public. The Chicago Police Department has not and will not establish public viewing areas. Demonstrators will be allowed to demonstrate and protest on any public areas to include sidewalks.

Demonstration permits are required in Chicago, IL. Demonstration and/or protest activity surrounding the summit will likely be significant given the anger surrounding NATO's role in the war in Afghanistan and given the organization of the Occupy movement. Intelligence garnered suggests that protestors are very technically savvy and are using technology as a means to circumvent traditional law enforcement intelligence gathering and to meet and organize protest efforts.

The expensive view at the NATO summit

CRAINS // Paul Merriam

For the 42 companies that helped organize Chicago's hosting of the NATO summit, it's finally payoff time.

Whether they loaned employees for close to a year or helped pony up $36.5 million in cash, sponsorship of the NATO summit host committee was a matter of civic pride for the local companies involved. But in many ways it was also a business decision.

The May 20-21 summit is a highly anticipated prize for many of the corporate donors who helped raise about twice as much for the city's failed bid for the 2016 Summer Olympics, with little to show for it.

The most tangible reward this time: Execs from Boeing Co., Caterpillar Inc. and other local mainstays will join those from out-of-state firms such as Charlotte, N.C.-based Duke Energy Corp.; Waltham, Mass.-based Raytheon Co.; and Memphis-based Federal Express Corp. at a private May 20 Field Museum dinner with several heads of state and other summit VIPs.

"That's quite a lobbying opportunity," says David Morrison, deputy director of the Illinois Campaign for Political Reform, a government ethics watchdog in Chicago. "It's a chance to have face time with some pretty important people."

Along with discreet, NATO-approved displays of sponsors' corporate logos at the summit site, it's an opportunity to see and be seen at a big international event.

That may not seem like much for contributions that probably averaged $1 million each (amounts won't be disclosed until after the summit, but at least six sponsors made in-kind contributions of manpower rather than cash). But it's worth it for companies that operate in the 40 to 50 countries whose heads of state will be in Chicago this weekend.

See more Crain's coverage of the NATO summit

"As a global company, the audience doesn't get any more global than the one you're going to see that weekend," a spokesman for Peoria-based Cat says. "We expect there will be opportunities to talk about our global business and have dialogue with people from around the world who may want to learn more about Caterpillar."

In a statement, FedEx says, "Sponsorship of an event like this is one way for us to communicate that FedEx is an engaged and responsible global stakeholder. We believe that it's in our customers' best interest that we are an active participant in this kind of forum and we routinely look for similar opportunities."

Aside from wanting to showcase the city or rub shoulders with the powerful, many sponsors see the summit as a show of support for Mayor Rahm Emanuel's first big venture on the world stage. Nearly half of the Chicago-area cash contributors are on the board of World Business Chicago, the city's mayorally appointed economic development arm and parent of the host committee.

CONNECTIONS

Other sponsors share close ties to the mayor, who cut his teeth in politics as a relentless fundraiser. For instance, Duke Energy CEO Jim Rogers is a longtime donor to Democratic candidates and the Clinton Global Initiative. He has a $13.7 billion merger with Raleigh, N.C.-based Progress Energy Inc. pending with federal regulators to create the nation's largest power company.

Caterpillar's ties to Mr. Emanuel go back to when he was a senior Clinton White House adviser aligned with Cat in pushing for a controversial free trade deal with Mexico and Canada.

Mr. Emanuel also boasts of having the number and email address of Jeffrey Immelt, CEO of General Electric Co., another host committee sponsor and one of the first companies to announce a big increase in Chicago jobs after the mayoral election.

"Let me put it this way," says Lori Healey, NATO host committee executive director. "As a former White House chief of staff he can pick up the phone and call any business CEO in the country, and he does it routinely. He was absolutely involved. The mayor said very clearly that taxpayers wouldn't be paying the cost of putting on the summit."

After NATO, we'll still be known (sigh) for Capone

CRAINS // Joseph B. Cahill

Quick: What city hosted the last summit of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization?

If your answer was "I don't know," you're like most people. I didn't know the answer until I looked it up for this column. (For those of you keeping score, it was Lisbon, Portugal.)

But I'll bet you know that the last city to host the Summer Olympics was Beijing.

The purpose of this pop quiz is to reveal the fallacy of one of Mayor Rahm Emanuel's main rationales for subjecting Chicagoans to the cost and inconvenience of hosting the gathering of heads of state from North America and Europe next week: enhancing Chicago's image as a world-class, 21st-century city and helping erase lingering associations with Al Capone in the minds of people around the world.

The truth is the NATO summit will have no impact on Chicago's global image. How many people have a new appreciation of Lisbon since it hosted the summit in 2010? How about Bucharest, Hungary, or Riga, Latvia, two other recent summit sites?

Events like the NATO summit, important as they may be to the course of world events, just don't register with ordinary folks. It's a meeting, not a sporting event or a cultural extravaganza like the Columbian Exposition that put Chicago on the map in 1893. It's a nonevent as far as most of us are

That means no morning coffee during your Monday commute on May 21, patdowns and other security measures the U.S. Secret Service doesn't want to disclose. Metra announced its plans Friday to step up security for the NATO Summit— including closing 26 stations on the Electric Line May 21 to focus security on stations with higher ridership.

Local clergy look to the NATO summit as an opportunity to practice what they preach

TRIBUNE // Manya A. Brachear

Chicagoans know NATO holds the potential for traffic snarls, broken windows and clashes between police and protesters. But there are some holding out hope that it also offers promise for economic justice and peace.

As most of the city focuses on the mechanics of the 25th NATO summit, religious leaders have zeroed in on the mission of the world's largest military alliance, delivering sermons and hosting 1960s-style teach-ins to remind their congregations that, just like the politicians, ordinary worshipers should work to end poverty, world hunger and war.

NATO host committee switches insurance brokers

Cites costs in pulling Aon contract

TRIBUNE //Melissa Harris and Kathy Bergen

The NATO host committee pulled an insurance brokerage contract from Aon Risk Solutions after the company found only one carrier willing to insure local police against lawsuits and at a price higher than summit organizers anticipated, the Tribune has learned.

The action reflected the difficulties in finding affordable insurance for large-scale events that could result in riots and mass arrests. Chicago hosts the NATO summit May 20-21.

Yesterday at approximately 1630 hrs (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) Illinois National Guard, began to receive several emails per minute to his "dot mil" email account. This effectively shut down that account. Source of the attack seems to be anti-war veterans protesting the Guards involvement in NATO security.

ATSAIC (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) notified me upon getting notification from the General of the attack and ask CSP assets to assist if possible.

I spoke to the General around 1930 hrs getting a description of the issue. He stated that the attack is ongoing, however, his IT staff has blocked the emails based on subject line content. They also determined the source was an "Occupy" website used by the attackers. In conversation with the General, he stated NO DATA EXFILTRATION HAD OCCURED from his account. The only thing happening was the lack of access to the account for a time.

I then spoke to (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) staff member (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) I explained the plan of attack for possible criminal investigation. They agreed to turn over IP addresses to me for analysis. Those IP addresses are not available until Monday.

Today I spoke to Director of Provost for the IL Guard, CW2 (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) he stated that he would ensure we got any data we needed to go forward with investigations. He stated that the Provost would defer to the Service on this.

SA (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) Fairview Heights Domicile is standing by to assist as the victim is in the Southern District of Illinois.

CSP SAs are awaiting the data from the Guard to do analysis.

This attack is a simple but effective email flood. The attack has been mitigated with criminal investigation is the next step.

ANCHOR: First at 5:00, a plea from protesters coming to Chicago for the NATO summit. They're hoping Chicagoans will open up their homes to them.

ANCHOR: Thousands of protesters will come to the summit. They say they need a place to stay, and now some people who work in the loop are being encouraged to dress down and ditch the business suits to avoid being targeted by protesters.

WGN Evening News at 5PM – NATO Summit preparations underway

ANCHOR: Some subtle NATO preparations are being made on both the public and private side. Overnight city crews removed solar powered big belly garbage cans and replaced them with traditional wire trash garbage cans, which are easier to search for police and security forces out there.

CBS 2 News at 5PM – Field Museum to be open Saturday, Monday during NATO Summit

ANCHOR: Chicago's crown jewel of a museum knew NATO would have an impact on one of their busy weekends. Now the Field Museum says it will be closed to the public on Sunday May 20 when it hosts a NATO event that evening. But the Field will remain open on Saturday and Monday. The Shedd and Adler Planetarium haven't announced their plans for the NATO weekend.

ABC 7 News at 4:30PM – NATO Summit preparations underway

ANCHOR: Chicago city crews are replacing the large trash compactors on city sidewalks ahead of the nato summit. The enclosed trash cans known as big belly are being swapped out with open wire mesh trash cans as a safety precaution. Authorities say they can do a better job of checking the wire trash cans for any dangerous materials that could be placed inside them during a protest.

NBC 5 News at 4:30PM – NATO summit preparations underway

ANCHOR: And now the countdown to NATO. We're already seeing some security precautions. City crews replaced the trash bins with wire baskets are easier to see into. And some office workers are being told to dress down, not carry bags with corporate logos so they're not obvious targets for protesters.

NBC5 News at Noon- NATO Summit preparations underway

ANCHOR: first here at noon, countdown to NATO weekend. It's going to disrupt traffic, businesses and communities, and now it will affect the way some people dress. Good afternoon. Thank you for joining us. This is part of the latest security measures. People who work in the loop are being encouraged to dress down and ditch the business suits and that's to avoid being targeted by the protesters. Anthony Ponce is out on the plaza. PONCE: some downtown employees think the plans make sense. They plan on following the advice. Others say if they are going to be targeting civilians, it won't matter what they have on.

ABC 7 News at 11AM- NATO Summit preparations underway

ANCHOR: You may notice changes when you walk around the loop this morning as Chicago takes another step to prepare to host the NATO summit. City crews started on removing the large solar powered garbage cans from the loop early this morning. This is one of many measures being put in place before the NATO summit which is just less than two weeks away.

KNOWLES: That's right the NATO summit is less than two weeks away. Because of it you will see some of the changes in the city. You will see wire garbage cans. They have replaced the large enclosed garbage cans. Here is why.

ABC 7 News at 11AM-NATO Summit preparations underway

ANCHOR: You may notice changes walking around the loop this morning as Chicago continues to prepare to host the NATO summit. Crews have removed those large solar powered garbage cans early this morning it is one of many safety measures put in place before the summit.

CBS 2 News at 11AM-NATO Summit preparations underway

ANCHOR: Trash cans in downtown Chicago are being replaced for the upcoming NATO summit. Workers began to switch out the trash compactors for wired trash cans. The solar bend's pose a security risk because they have lids and officers cannot easily see inside of them. The Chicago field museum will only close for one day during a NATO summit.

WGN Midday News at 11AM-NATO Summit preparations underway

ANCHOR: The City of Chicago is pulling all those solar powered garbage containers from the downtown area. It's one of the precautionary security measures the city is taking before the NATO summit later this month.

Chicago pulls permit for nurses rally planned for NATO summit

TRIBUNE // David Heinzmann

The city of Chicago today yanked a permit for the first big march and rally planned for the weekend of the NATO summit in a dispute over the route for the May 18 demonstration by the National Nurses United. The organization says it has begun talks with American Civil Liberties Union lawyers about a challenge to the city's about-face. "If the nurses are a threat to Rahm Emanuel, then heaven help the U.S.," said RoseAnn DeMoro, executive director of National Nurses United.

Field Museum to stay open May 19, 21 despite NATO Summit

SUN TIMES // FRANCINE KNOWLES

The Field Museum said Tuesday it plans to stay open the Saturday before the NATO Summit — May 19 — as well as Monday, May 21, during the summit. "Based on information from NATO officials, the Field Museum is confident it will be able to serve the public as usual," the museum said in a written statement.

Field Museum to be open part of NATO summit weekend

TRIBUNE // Jim Jaworski

The Field Museum will be open the Saturday and Monday of the NATO summit, despite some street closures and parking limitations, officials announced today. The museum will be open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days. Parking will be limited Saturday, but spokeswoman Nancy O'Shea said she believes there will be enough space. The top three floors of the north Soldier Field parking lot and the Adler Planetarium parking lot will be open.

Put up a protester, and give peace a chance.

That's the message of activists who want Chicagoans to open up their homes, yards and businesses to out-of-town protesters during the coming NATO summit.

And any homeowners who fear they'll end up hosting a hellish hippy scene in their house can rest easy, Occupy Chicago says — drugs and booze are banned.

"These peaceful protesters need a place to rest their head; somewhere to stay out of the cold and the rain and away from police who will throw them in jail simply for trying to sleep on public land," the protest group says.

Thousands of protesters from across the United States and abroad are expected to come to Chicago for the weekend of May 18-21. While some have booked into hostels and hotels, many more need a free place to sleep, according to organizers, who say they've laid down four ground rules for guests in other people's homes: Leave no trace; respect your host; no drugs or alcohol; and no loud noise.

Retired Lincoln Square carpenter Terry Keenan, 59, is one of the homeowners who've agreed to welcome protesters. He expects a busload of 50 or so to sleep in his two-flat and to camp in his yard.

"I'm doing it to say that we're against NATO and the huge amounts of tax money that support it while we have no control over its policies," Keenan said, adding that the protesters are "good-hearted people — I've got no worries about having them in my home."

Last week, the Rev. Errol Narain offered the grounds of Trinity Episcopal Church to protesters. But protest organizers say they're still looking for other large sites that can accommodate large groups and are asking anyone with a home or site to offer to call them at (773) 536-9634.

Subject: Protestor Sanctuary

Open source reporting from the Chicago Tribune has identified the Trinity Episcopal Church, located at 26th and Michigan, as a "sanctuary for protestors coming to the NATO summit." It is to serve as a campsite for a group of about 40 demonstrators panning to ride bicycles from Madison, WI to Chicago, IL for the NATO summit.

This information was passed to me by SA (b)(6)(b)(7)(C) CHI FBI. There is currently no adverse intelligence on the group of cyclists that are planning to camp out there. She also mentioned that there has been some chatter amongst some of these affinity groups/anarchists that they are still seeking locations where they can be housed in the Chicago area. One such location that has been brought up is the old Michael Reese Hospital and Medical Center that is located between 26th and 31st Streets and Martin Luther King Drive and the railroad tracks that are adjacent to Lake Shore Drive. Currently, there are no squatters located in that area, but I believe the area is still owned by the city of Chicago and is currently vacant.

I bring these two locations to your attention because of the close proximity to McCormick Place and potentially to our motorcades.

R/ExTs called to basement of the Trump Tower Hotel to assist an FBI SABT/WMD agent with a suspicious envelope that was received earlier in the day that may contain an unknown powder substance. SABT (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) was awaiting the R/ExTs to clear the suspect envelope of any explosive device before he could transport the item to a nearby lab for analysis.

R/ExTs arrived, met with SABT (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) and began diagnostics on the envelope. No IED components were present. The envelope was turned over to SABT (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) and he related to the R/ExTs that an FBI investigation was initiated and that he was going to take the envelope to an initial local lab to rule out any bio-terrorism material. After that process was completed the item may be sent to the (b)(7)(E) and an in-depth analysis to determine the chemical makeup of the contents. The R/ExTs would receive an email with photos and lab analysis results at a later time.

The R/ExTs could not get clear photos of the envelope , but did observe the return address was labeled "Occupy Chicago, May 22-23 2012" and that it was addressed to the Trump Tower Hotel.

Mayor Rahm Emanuel of Chicago is attempting to clamp down on First Amendment rights to march and speak out against the NATO and G8 summits in May 2012.

Emanuel is trying to rush through the City Council on January 18th a vote to greatly restrict the right to protest: raising fines for arrests during protests; making unreasonable demands on protest organizers, such as one marshal for every 100 marchers; a list in advance of all signs and banners in a march; and a list of all equipment for amplification of sound one week before any march. Also he wants permits for any sidewalk protest, which would be a major blow to unions and community groups.

Also, while the city has granted permits for a rally and march on the first day of the May 19th – 21st summits, organizers were told that permits could be revoked by the Secret Service.

We are asking supporters of the march against NATO/G8 to call Mayor Rahm Emmanuel on Tuesday January 17th. (If you live in the City of Chicago, please also call your alderperson as well).

Phone number 312-744-5000

Demand the following:

- 1) Back off the changes to the ordinances covering protests and public assemblies.
- 2) Publicly call on the Secret Service to permit CANG8 to use the permit sites granted by the city.

Then, report your call afterwards by sending an email to cangate2012@gmail.com

Background:

On January 12, the City of Chicago granted permits to the Coalition Against NATO/G8 War and Poverty Agenda (CANG8) for a rally and march on May 19. CANG8 is mobilizing against the summits of NATO/G8 occurring in Chicago that weekend. The two summits will be overlapping over 3 days.

CANG8 will continue building broad support for their demands for permits and exposing the NATO and G8 agendas of bankers, generals and heads of state of the wealthiest nations.

CANG8 is planning a family-friendly demonstration to take their message to within sight and sound of the McCormick Place where the summits are scheduled.

On the permit letters to the coalition from the City, a brief waiver statement reads:

Please note that the G8/NATO summits have been designated by the Department of Homeland Security as a Nation Special Security Event, which means the U.S. Secret Service is mandated by Federal law to head the design and implementation of an operational security plan for the summits. In the event the Secret Service designates specific security zones or areas that impact your event location, the Public Building Commission will work with you to find an alternate location for your event.

This threat of the Secret Service intervention is real. It appears the joint city-federal agency overseeing the summits might stop protests from reaching the eyes and ears of the rich and powerful who will be at McCormick Place in May.

in mid December Mayor Emanuel proposed the City Council vote to accept what he called temporary changes to city ordinances to make protests harder to organize and to threaten anyone who speaks up with enormous fines and police repression. In early January, the Mayor flipped the script, apologized for any miss understanding and said the ordinance changes would be permanent.

City council leaders were said to be in the "yes" camp, supporting the mayor, but a continuing pressure campaign that drew in Occupy Chicago, SEIU, the Teachers Union and civil liberties advocates softened their outright support. As reported in the press, on Jan. 12, the mayor's office witnessed a rebellion by alderpersons who, for the first time, have said "no" to Emanuel.

The city council is scheduled to vote on Emanuel's ordinance changes at its meeting on Wednesday, Jan. 18. Two committees of the city council are scheduled to discuss the changes on Jan. 17. CANG8 is calling for a national call in day to demand Emanuel stop his efforts to deny the right to protest, and locally we are asking allies to call their alderperson to say no to the changes in the ordinances.

For more information about CANG8, check here."

"Protest NATO/G8 Summit— May 2012— Chicago

Posted on January 12, 2012

Activists receive permit for mass march on NATO/G8, but serious issues remain

 Permit and cover letter from City imply that Feds may nix permits

 Permits show that current ordinances work; Mayor should rescind his proposed anti-protester ordinance changes

CHICAGO, January 12: Activists with the Coalition Against the NATO and G8 War & Poverty Agenda (CANG8) this afternoon received a permit from the City of Chicago for a Saturday, May 19 march from Daley Plaza to McCormick Place, site of the NATO/G8 summits to be held May 19-21.

The issuance of this permit shows that the current ordinances, while not perfect, are more than adequate for large public events in our city, and that the Mayor should rescind his proposed anti-protester ordinances. These proposed ordinance changes have been roundly condemned by all civil liberties experts who have reviewed them. The time to withdraw them is now.

The cover letter from the City accompanying the CANG8 permit contains a disturbing "escape clause," which reads, "In the event [that] the Secret Service designates specific security zones or areas that impact your route, please note that the Chicago Department of Transportation will work with you to find an alternate route for your event."

We reject the notion that the Secret Service should reject permits that have already been approved. The feds have had at least six months to study the security issues surrounding the summits. In the event that they attempt to make large sections of the city inaccessible, we demand that the City insist that the protests proceed unimpeded and unmolested. Anything less would be hypocrisy on the Mayor's part.

For a thorough analysis of the proposed ordinances from someone who has been in the trenches, click here.

The City Council is scheduled to vote on Emanuel's ordinance changes at its meeting on Wednesday, January 18 (the meeting starts at 10 AM, but arrive at 8 AM or earlier if you hope to get into the City Council Chambers, 121 N. LaSalle Street, 2nd floor). Two City Council committees are scheduled to discuss the changes on Tuesday, January 17 — the Committee on Budget and Government Operations at 10 AM in the 2nd floor City Council chambers, and the Committee on Special Events, Cultural Affairs and Recreation at 1 PM in Room 201A. A press conference will precede all of this at 9 AM in front of the City Council chambers on the 2nd floor.

Chicago Mayor Rahm Emanuel is proposing two ordinances that can best be described as draconian. The purpose of these ordinances is to intimidate and stop dissent.

For a thorough analysis of these ordinances from someone who has been in the trenches, click here.

Then, share your concerns with the aldermen about why Emanuel's proposed legislation is not the kind of retreat to a more repressive city that you would like.

1. Contact the aldermen on the committees responsible for the new legislation — the Committee on Special Events, Cultural Affairs and Recreation (overseeing the new parade permit and public gatherings ordinances, 10-8-330 and 10-8-334) and the Committee on Budget and Government Operations (overseeing the provisions for no-bid contracts, deputizing "law enforcement," and the proposed revisions to the resisting arrest ordinance). And whether or not your alderman is on either committee, contact him or her.

2. Attend the Tuesday, January 17th committee meetings of the City Council that will be hear the proposed ordinance changes:

- a) 10 AM, Jan. 17 at 121 N. LaSalle Street, 2nd floor City Council chambers — meeting of the Committee on Budget and Government Operations
- b) 1 PM, Jan. 17 at 121 N. LaSalle Street, Room 201A — meeting of th

Downtown Chicago Lockdown? NATO, G8 Summits To Restrict Loop Access

First Posted: 1/12/12 03:38 PM ET Updated: 1/12/12 03:38 PM ET

Members of the Occupy movement and other protesters have already expressed frustration with new rules Mayor Rahm Emanuel has proposed for the upcoming NATO/G8 summits, and a security perimeter being put in place by the secret service may ignite even more controversy.

While Emanuel has come up with increased security measures of his own -- which the City Council will vote on next week -- host committee spokeswoman Jennifer Martinez told the Chicago Sun-Times that a downtown lockdown would be part of the federal government's security plan.

Martinez told the Sun-Times that the secret service will likely put a large security perimeter around McCormick Place, which would block people from walking or driving in the area. Access to the Loop will also be restricted, but details may not be available until the weeks leading up to the May event.

Expected street closures will likely leave Chicago with a bill from Chicago Parking Meters, LLC once again. The city's controversial parking meter deal requires Chicago to compensate the company for lost revenue due to street closures. Martinez, however, told the Sun-Times this burden would not fall on taxpayers.

"We are committed, through private and federal resources, to pay for the costs associated with the summit so it's not a burden on taxpayers. This would be a cost associated with the summit. And we are committed to paying for it," she told the paper.

On Thursday, the city issued its first protest permit to the Coalition Against the NATO/G8 War & Poverty Agenda, and Mayor Emanuel said the city stands "in strong support of the applicant organizations' First Amendment right to protest," NBC Chicago reports.

The permit comes after activists announced plans to sue the city over new protest rules put in place. Emanuel initially said the rules would only be in place for the NATO and G8 summits, but later said they would be permanent.

Emanuel's plan would double fines for resisting a police officer from its current range of $25 to $500 to $200 to $1,000. The mayor's ordinance will also restrict the hours of public parks, playgrounds and beaches in accordance with the Chicago Park District's hours of operation. A second ordinance applying to the protests requires organizers to provide a parade marshal of their own for every 100 demonstration participants.

The Chicago Coalition Against War & Racism called the ordinances "ridiculously burdensome" and some groups said they would sue if the changes are approved.

Long-time Chicago activist Don Rose said last week the new rules could actually encourage the sort of 1968 Democratic National Convention-esque confrontation the mayor's office would probably like to avoid.

"The more pugnacious the city gets, the more provocative it becomes," Rose said, according to NBC.

President Obama and other world leaders are expected to attend the May summits, which are expected to give local restaurants, hotels and shops a revenue boost.

"This is big for our city, it's an opportunity for our city to be on the map of the world, it's also an opportunity to bring more economic development to our city, so we want to put our best face forward as a city being viewed by the whole world," Alderman Walter Burnett (27th) told ABC Chicago.

The Secret Service is working diligently with a wide array of partners in preparation for the G-8/NATO Summits. Our goal is to develop and implement, with the numerous participating agencies, a seamless security plan that will create a safe and secure environment for our protectees, other dignitaries, event participants, and the general public while at the same time minimizing disruption to the local community.

At this point the process of designating official venues has not been finalized. Once this process has been completed, security assessments will be conducted and security perimeters established in agreement with all federal, state and local partners. Information relating to security measures that could potentially impact the general public such as road closures and parking restrictions will be released when those details have been finalized. In the past these details have been released two to four weeks prior to the event

3 reasons to expect chaos at the 2012 G8 Summit

Posted by AD on January 28th, 2012

Chicago, Illinois will host this year's Group of Eight summit between May 19-20th with several key factors and factions in the background. Violence and minor riots have broken out outside of the annual G8 summit since the group was formed in 1997. In Italy in 2001, a large mob formed and proceeded to destroy shop windows, burning vehicles, and causing massive amounts of damage. Considering the ongoing demonstrations around the United States and the expected demonstrations in the spring, it wouldn't be out of the question to state that the G8 summit will be the perfect stage for various dissident groups. There are three reasons in particular as to why it makes sense to entertain the possibility of more turmoil than usual at this year's G8 summit.

1. Occupy Wall Street / Occupy Chicago

Just yesterday night, over 300 protesters were arrested at Occupy Oakland after an estimated crowd of over 2000 marched through the downtown area of the city injuring cops, destroying fencing, and in one instance burning a flag. If you think that the OWS movement is taking a break, you're sadly mistaken. Occupy Chicago may have been stagnated by freezing temperatures and snow, but tea parties weren't standing outside and protesting in January of 2009 either. As spring weather arrives, expect a resurgence at Occupy Wall Street, Occupy Chicago, and several other large cities.

The G8 summit by its very definition is a conference of the 1% and the ruling elite, so along with the anticipated anti-globalism, anti-imperialism protesters, you can rest assured that a large swath of occupiers will show up.

2. Adbusters' Call to Occupy G8

Adbusters, the magazine that was responsible for sowing the seeds of the Occupy Wall Street movement, issued a briefing asking tens of thousands of rebels and radicals to flock to Chicago for the G8 summit.

1578-87

On 05/01/12, (b)(6) (b)(7)(C), (b)(7)(E) (672-23410-1) planned to destroy police vehicles and target four police stations with Molotov cocktails prior to the 2012 NATO Summit (678-87) to undermine the police response to their other planned actions during the summit. (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) and several associates, including (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (673-86841-2), (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (673-86841-10) and (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (672-23410-2), were self-proclaimed anarchists who traveled together from Florida to the Chicago area to protest the NATO summit.

(b)(7)(E) reported the group conducted surveillance of downtown Chicago buildings, law enforcement and banks. (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (b)(7)(E) He mentioned a Chase Bank in downtown Chicago and Chicago Mayor Rahm Emanuel's house among the potential targets. (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) expressed an interest in purchasing several assault rifles and indicated if a police officer were to point a gun at him, he would be "pointing one back" at the police officer.

On 05/15/12, an (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (672-23410-3), (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (b)(7)(E) he had an explosive device that fit into a book cutout. He claimed it could bring down half of a bridge and discussed using it during a NATO parade.

On 05/16/12, (b)(6) (b)(7)(C), (b)(7)(E) and other associates and created Molotov cocktails. While constructing the Molotov cocktails, (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) asked the group if they had ever "seen a cop on fire." Arrest warrants were executed on (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (672-23410-4), (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (672-23410-5), (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (672-23410-6), (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (672-23410-7), and (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (672-23410-8). (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) and (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) were subsequently released without charges.

On 05/19/12, (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) was arrested and charged with making false terroristic threats. An additional associate of the group, (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (672-23410-9), met with other associates and stated he wanted to obtain materials in order to make a pipe bomb. He claimed he needed PVC pipes, PVC caps, PVC glue, and model rocket engines to create the device. (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) was subsequently arrested and charged with solicitation for possession of explosives.

No USSS investigation was conducted and this incident was approved for non-referral by ATSAIC/DTD.

DIRECTIONS OF INTERESTCountries Concerned*KEYTERMS*CASE SUMMARY

This file was established to capture incidents and subjects that come to USSS attention with a direction of interest in the 2012 NATO Summit (678-00087) held on May 21 to 22, 2012, in Chicago, IL (674-129159).

On 03/27/12, the ARDIAN Group (responsible for sending NATO press invitations) reported an unusual request for NATO press credentials from (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (679-13646). The group advised that an invitation was not sent to (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) and they did not understand how she applied as a member of the press. On the web-based registration form, (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) registered as a blogger using her twitter handle, (b)(6) (b)(7)(C).

On 04/20/12, the LSL PD had observed (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (671-41113) hitchhiking. When approached by local law enforcement, (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) advised he worked for President Barack Obama and needed to get to Chicago. When asked for identification, (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) became angry, stepped away from the officer, moved his coat from his side and reached for a 9mm handgun in his waist band. (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) was subsequently arrested without further incident.

On 05/17/12, arrest warrants were executed on several self-proclaimed anarchists for planning to attack several Chicago Police Stations and other targets with Molotov cocktails prior to the Summit. Please see 672-23410 for further details.

On 05/18/12, during routine Internet monitoring, ITU discovered an unknown subject (679-13583), user name "OccupyIntel," utilizing Twitter to distribute operational information regarding law enforcement to Occupy protesters in the Chicago area. The information passed included law enforcement movements and abilities. On 05/18/12, at 1527 hrs, the unknown subject posted, "UNDERCOVER ID: One undercover officer wearing white jersey with number 25 and black pants. #OCHI #NoNATO."

On 05/19/12, the McCormick Place Security Room (main NATO Summit site) reported that (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (674-0129159-1) jumped the fence at post 1204. (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) stopped when requested and was cooperative; however, he only spoke Spanish. (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) stated he was illegally in the country from Mexico, and that he regularly jogs through McCormick Place. (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) stated he went over some tape but did not jump a fence.

LOST/STOLEN ITEMS:

On 02/17/12, (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) a State Department employee working on G8/NATO, reported her purse was stolen including her USSS issued State Department Protocol pin. She was issued another pin after the stolen pin was entered into NCIC.

INCIDENTS:

On 05/16/12, the Chicago Police Department (CPD) responded to East Hyde Park Blvd southwest of President Obama's Chicago residence due to graffiti on the street barricades which read "Violence is Weak." (672-23393) The Chicago

Department of Transportation (CDOT) replaced the barrier. CPD reviewed footage from the video camera mounted on East Hyde Park Blvd for investigative leads. Upon review, the video footage revealed that an unknown male was observed applying an unknown substance onto the barriers from approximately 0520 to 0535 hours. No vehicle information was obtained and no additional investigative leads were developed.

On 05/18/12, ITU reported that at 1:16 p.m., an unknown subject (679-14248) posted a threat towards the NATO Summit on Twitter. The unknown subject, using the screen name, [REDACTED] wrote, "I'll run up on this NATO with a bomb attached to my chest." The threatening post was subsequently deleted; however, intel gathered from other posts indicated the subject was visited by the FBI for the threatening post. The unknown subject wrote, "I'm still tweaking about earlier," "All for saying stupid things," "The FBI will actually track you down," "People I kid you fucking not, watch what you say online. Don't make stupid threats," and "they just wanted to assure I wasn't going downtown with a bomb attached to my chest :l lol."

On 05/20/12, ITU reported that on 05/19/12, at 4:04 p.m., an unknown subject (679-14247) posted a threat towards Pakistani President Zardari on Twitter during the Summit. In response to a tweet asking, "hello mate, how are you doing?" The unknown subject, using the screen name, [REDACTED] wrote, "don't ask man. wanna kill zardari."

On 05/20/12, at 5:01 p.m., an unknown subject (679-14249) posted a comment concerning the NATO Summit law enforcement. Using the screen name, [REDACTED] the subject made several posts about a white van (presumably belonging to the DOD) that was involved in jamming communications signals at the summit. The unknown subject asked protestors to watch for the van and posted, "REQUEST CHI: Any solid white box trucks seen near route please send out the license plate. DoD is operating one along route. #OCHI #noNATO."

On 05/21/12, ITU reported that an unknown subject (679-19037), user name "ObamaCSI.com," posted a link to a website titled, "Assassination Df Obama and NATO Officials Planned for Chicago?" The article discussed what the ramification would be on the American population if a successful assassination of President Obama or any other world leader was carried out during NATO.

Occupy the Rails!

by (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) Sun Feb 19, 2012 4:51 pm

Call for an action to occupy a Chicago Railroad Junction on May 18, 2012.

Occupy Chicago

The ChicagoSpring website is here! Find out everything you need to know about all the actions and events being planned this spring. It all starts on April 7th. Won't you please come to Chicago?

Chicago Spring
www.chicagospring.org

<http://www.facebook.com/OccupyChicago>

April 7th

What:

April 7 is the official kickoff of Chicago Spring! On this day, Occupy Chicago will join with allies across Chicago for a citywide day of action. The many injustices we fight are intricately woven together, rooted to the faults and dysfunctions of our broken political, social, and economic systems. We will educate, inspire, unite, and mobilize around the interconnected character of our fights, spurring to make a lasting impact on the city of Chicago.

Why:

By breaking down economic, social, racial, and geographic barriers that the 1% have used to divide us, we can reshape our perception of democracy, unite for stronger action across every community, and transform Chicago for the 99%. With the Nato&G8 Summits around the corner, we feel it is crucial to mold the potential of this spring in a direction that encompasses the people and the unique struggles of our city. We hope to spur a spring full of direct action and change across all communities, inspiring and empowering ordinary Chicagoans to join together for change.

When and Where:

Morning: There are Actions and Events sponsored by different organizations happening across each neighborhood and community! Check out the Morning page to find out what's happening near you!

1:15pm: Participants arriving in the loop will rally and march to converge to take us into Grant Park. Here there will be a festival of education, art, and action to unify our city.

April 7th will be an unprecedented show of citywide unity, solidarity and empowerment. We hope you will join us to make it happen.

<http://www.chicagospring.org/>

MAYDAY!

Occupations all across the globe will stand up and defend the 99% on May 1st. In Chicago, we are organizing a massive gathering of laborers, immigrants, students & more. JOIN US IN CHICAGO!

CALL TO ACTION: On May 1st, we will march for the 99%! JOIN US IN CHICAGO!

We are Workers. We are Students. We are Documented. We are Undocumented. We are Occupiers.

They are Detaining Us. They are Shutting Down our Clinics. They are Closing our Schools. They are Taking our Wealth. They are Busting our Unions.

Come May 1st, we are on the March! Join Us!

<http://www.chicagospring.org/>

People's Summit

Occupy Chicago is working with other occupations and various activist groups to develop a coalition-built People's Summit for the weekend of May 12th and 13th, as a direct response to the NATO/G8 summit the subsequent weekend, May 19th-21st. JOIN US!

The People's Summit will serve three main purposes:

- Educating the public about NATO/G8
- Developing workshops for actions of dissent for NATO/G8 (May 19-22)
- Presenting visions of the world we want to inhabit— a world without NATO/G8!

With NATO/G8 in Chicago to design their program of war and austerity, you can help send an entirely different message of peace, social justice, and equality by getting involved in the planning of a counter summit (also known as the People's Summit) to be held in the run-up to their meeting. The People's Summit aims to unite the broadest and most diverse possible array of organizations and individuals who dissent from the global vision of NATO/G8. The People's Summit will help educate a new generation about the issues that we all confront as well as mobilize people to the mass march and rally on May 19 being organized by the Coalition Against NATO/G8 (CANG8).

The vision is to have an open, democratic and inclusive conference, which will include both large panels and self-organized workshops.

If you are interested in being a part of the People's Summit Working Group, contact CANGATE2012@gmail.com!

Additional details will be publicized as they become available! Stay tuned!

Nato / G8

On May 19, Mayor 1% Emanuel will bring to Chicago military and civilian representatives of the 28-nation US-commanded and largely US-financed North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and heads of state and finance ministers of the G-8 world economic powers.

They meet on behalf of the 1% of the world, the rich and the powerful, the bankers and generals. Their agenda is to continue to impose austerity, or poverty, by cutting social spending for workers and the poor to maintain profitability for the rich and to launch more wars to stop the rise of the poor nations of the Third World.

The people of this fine city do not want these summits. The mayor has his own agenda. In anticipation of widespread opposition to the war & poverty agenda of the NATO/G8, Mayor Emanuel passed a set of first-amendment crushing ordinances, known as "Sit Down Shut Up", to stifle the exercise of free speech and assembly during the summits. The mayor single-handedly gave himself the ability to issue no-bid security contracts and deputize out-of-town law enforcement while imposing harsh restrictions on parades, marches and demonstrations.

But we will not be silenced. We will stand up to this corrupt system and say enough! Join Occupy Chicago, Coalition Against NATO/G8 (CANG8), the Midwest Antiwar Mobilization and many more as we gather in Chicago in May!

The Coalition Against NATO/G8 is a broad formation that includes labor unions, community groups, anti-war and international solidarity groups and faith based activists. From the CANG8 website:

- Protest the NATO/G8 Summit on Saturday, May 19th, 2012!
- Noon rally at Daley Plaza, then march to McCormick Place!
- Join in a legal, permitted, family-friendly march and rally that will end within sight and sound of the summit at McCormick Place!

At the invitation of the White House, military and civilian representatives of the 28-nation US-commanded and largely US-financed North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and heads of state and finance ministers of the G-8 world economic powers are meeting in Chicago, May 19-21, 2012. To that we say:

- No to War and Austerity!
- Money out of politics! Represent for the people, not the money!
- No to NATO/G-8 Warmakers!
- Jobs, Healthcare, Education, Pensions, Housing & the Environment, Not War!

3 in Chicago Face Terrorism Charges Tied to NATO Protests

CHICAGO (NYTIMES)— Three men arrested in Chicago on Wednesday night were planning to attack the campaign headquarters of President Obama, the house of Mayor Rahm Emanuel, police stations and financial institutions in downtown Chicago, prosecutors said on Saturday.

The men, who were in Chicago to take part in protests related to the NATO summit meeting taking place here on Sunday and Monday, were charged with criminal acts relating to terrorism, conspiracy to commit terrorism, and possession of explosives.

"The individuals we charged are not peaceful protesters, they are domestic terrorists," said the state's attorney, Anita Alvarez. "The charges we bring today are not indicative of a protest movement that has been targeted." Ms. Alvarez said that this was the first time she knew of that defendants had been charged under the state's antiterrorism statute. She declined to comment on possible federal charges.

Lawyers for the defendants described the case as entrapment, saying that a man and a woman who were either informants or undercover law enforcement officials had come up with the plans and provided the materials. These two people were the only ones who committed any illegal activity, said Michael Deutsch, a lawyer with the National Lawyers Guild. FULL STORY LINK

Prosecutors: NATO protesters wanted to hit mayor's home, police stations

CHICAGO (WGN)—

Three out-of-state men arrested in a Bridgeport apartment raid days before the NATO summit considered hitting President Obama's campaign headquarters, Mayor Rahm Emanuel's house and police stations with "incendiary devices," according to court documents.

The trio, who are being held on $1.5 million bond apiece, are charged with conspiracy to commit terrorism, providing material support for terrorism and possession of an explosive or incendiary device. They are the first people to ever be charged with violating the state's anti-terror statutes, which were enacted after the Sept. 11, 2001, terror attacks, authorities said.

Cook County prosecutors identified the men as Brian Church, 20, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., Jared Chase, 24, of Keene, N.H., and Brent Vincent Betterly, 24, of Oakland Park, Fla. According to prosecutors, the three men are self proclaimed anarchists and members of "Black Bloc," a band of protesters who typically mask their faces to avoid identification.

Their arrests were the result of an investigation since early May into a group suspected of making Molotov cocktails — crude bombs usually created by filling glass beer bottles with gasoline, according to court records. In documents filed by prosecutors today, authorities hinted they had audio recordings in which the defendants talked about injuring police and threatened that "after NATO, the city will never be the same."

The men traveled from Florida to the Chicago area ahead of this weekend's NATO meetings in order to prepare a multi-staged attack against various targets in the city, prosecutors said. According to court documents, the men planned to first attack four Chicago police stations and destroy several squad cars with "destructive devices" in order to divert the department's attention and resources. Heightened NATO security in effect for commuters

(CHICAGO TRIBUNE) Trains were stopped for an hour and a half on the Metra Electric District line on the South Side this morning while authorities investigated a suspicious package that turned out to be an empty suitcase, authorities said.

Two inbound trains, numbers 114 and 116, were stopped around 115th Street about 8:20 a.m. while other inbound and outbound trains were halted near 53rd Street as canine units checked the package, according to Metra. Passengers who were waiting on the platform were moved away from the tracks, officials said.

Elsewhere in the Chicago area, the security crackdown implemented for the NATO summit that starts Sunday didn't seem unduly burdensome on commuters, many said.

But most agreed the dramatically increased police presence caught them off guard. FULL STORY HERE

Amtrak: Bomb-sniffing dogs to check passengers during NATO

Metra poised to announce Electric District Line plans

TRIBUNE // Richard Wronski

Bomb-sniffing dogs will be checking passengers and trains at Amtrak's Homewood and Union stations during the NATO summit at McCormick Place later this month, Amtrak said Thursday.

Occupy protesters plan to march without permits, target Boeing at NATO summit

Group aims to 'shut down' aircraft firm's office

TRIBUNE // Robert McCoppin

Occupy Chicago will join with fellow demonstrators in the large formal marches planned for next weekend's NATO summit but also plan their own protests, including one aimed at Boeing Co., organizers say. Occupy joined with other protest leaders to outline 10 days of "direct action," starting with free bus rides from other cities, participation in a series of rallies and protest, culminating in a march downtown by thousands of locals and visitors that Sunday, May 20.

Terrorism at NATO summit viewed as improbable, not impossible

FBI quietly on alert: 'Chicago has become a more high-profile target, we all know that'

TRIBUNE // Jeff Coen

When Chicago's FBI boss, Rob Grant, leaned toward a microphone at a NATO briefing for business leaders, the talk to that point had been about summit events and the city's global image, the annoyance of street closings, and the possibility of protesters breaking windows in the Loop.

WATCH - LISTEN: Supt. Garry McCarthy responds to protester video

WLS // ROE, ROEPER AND JOHN DEMPSEY

Chicago Police Department Superintendent Garry McCarthy responded to the protester video on the Roe & Roeper show, saying "That particular event, I watched the YouTube video this afternoon and it is very clearly edited."

The faces of the anti-NATO protests

SUN TIMES // KIM JANSSEN

They claim to represent "the 99 percent" of the world that they say is run by and in the interests of "the global 1 percent." And they're urging Chicagoans to take to the streets next week to resist what they call the city's attempts to "intimidate you from exercising your First Amendment rights." But who are the groups that are organizing the anti-NATO protests — and what do they want?

NATO likely to disrupt mail service in S. Loop

SUN TIMES // SANDRA GUY

Residents and businesses in the South Loop received flyers Wednesday warning of possible delays in receiving mail and of encountering sealed or missing postal boxes starting Monday through May 22 because of the NATO Summit and the traffic tie-ups it is expected to cause.

6. DEMONSTRATIONS:

United States Secret Service policy specifies that unless demonstration groups or individuals participating in a demonstration pose a security threat to USSS protectees, such demonstrators are to be treated as members of the general public. The Chicago Police Department has not and will not establish public viewing areas. Demonstrators will be allowed to demonstrate and protest on any public areas to include sidewalks.

Demonstration permits are required in Chicago, IL. Demonstration and/or protest activity surrounding the summit will likely be significant given the anger surrounding NATO's role in the war in Afghanistan and given the organization of the Occupy movement. Intelligence garnered suggests that protestors are very technically savvy and are using technology as a means to circumvent traditional law enforcement intelligence gathering and to meet and organize protest efforts.

The USSS demonstration and heckler policies will be fully discussed at all briefings.

Demonstration activity during the 2012 NATO summit will be reported, monitored and disseminated by the PICC to all concerned USSS entities by the most expeditious means available.

A. Planned Demonstration Activity:

To date, the following demonstrations are planned to coincide with NATO 2012.

9. PUBLICITY:

At this time, NATO 2012 has received extensive media attention. No specific detailed itineraries have been disclosed, and security arrangements, to include motorcade routes and RON locations, have not been publicized. It is anticipated with the commencement of NATO 2012 following the G8 2012 Summit at Camp David, MD, and the influx of notable heads of state, a moderate level of international media attention is also expected.

10. LOST/STOLEN CREDENTIALS/EQUIPMENT:

At this time there has been no lost or stolen equipment. Any lost or stolen equipment will be disseminated immediately to all NATO personnel via the USSS email system.

11. NAME CHECK EXCLUSIONS:

Name checks are ongoing. To date there have been 73 exclusions. The exclusions will be the subject of a subsequent official message.

"OccupyPDXNews" from PortlandN OR advises blackbloc is rallying to organize themselves. They refuse to speak with her on camera.

At the time, the demo is large, and unorganized. There are a lot of people just sitting in the shade. There are still speakers on the stage. Police are beginning to get into place.

I will advise when they start actually organizing and moving.

Study: NATO summit to give Chicago a $128 million boost
SUN TIMES // ABDON M. PALLASCH and FRAN SPIELMAN

The NATO summit coming to Chicago later this month will give a $128 million short-term boost to the city's economy, according to a projection released by the head of the host committee Monday. That does not count any long-term benefits of raising Chicago's profile. City officials and Mayor Rahm Emanuel insisted Monday that taxpayers will not be on the hook for a single dime of the $55 million cost of the summit.

NATO summit's economic impact questioned

Economist says host panel's projection of $128 million in spending is overestimated

TRIBUNE // Jeff Coen and Kathy Bergen

The Chicago host committee for the NATO summit said Monday that the event would be a bigger economic boon than some of the city's best-known trade shows, but the rosy projections include what the government and corporations are spending to put it on. Organizers have long promised that the May 20-21 event will be a financial win for the city despite any threat of disruption from protesters. To bolster that case, they released a 15-page study from an accounting firm that projected the total economic impact would be $128.2 million.

City says NATO summit worth $128 million to local economy

CRAINS // GREG HINZ

City Hall Monday released its bottom line on what the upcoming NATO summit means to Chicago's economy: an additional $128-million-plus in extra spending. In a report prepared for World Business Chicago by Deloitte, the big consulting and accounting firm estimated that delegates, reporters and others attending the May 20-21 event will directly spend $83 million on hotel rooms, meals and the like — money that would not otherwise have been spent.

Protesters hope to pump up volume this May Day

TRIBUNE // STAFF

Recent May Day marches in Chicago have been largely sedate affairs by labor and immigration groups, but Occupy demonstrators want to turn up the volume today as they — and city authorities — get tuned up for the May 20-21 NATO summit. Occupy Chicago is a lead organizer of this year's May Day demonstration, which is scheduled to begin with a noon rally at Union Park on the Near West Side, 1501 W. Randolph, and proceed with a 1 p.m. march to Federal Plaza on Dearborn Street in the Loop.

Tighter security at Dirksen federal building during NATO summit

SUN TIMES // NATASHA KORECKI

NATO summit weekend will mean significantly stricter security at the Dirksen federal courthouse, with certain people banned from entering after-hours — even family members of arrestees. Already, more security personnel has been spotted roaming the Dirksen lobby, and employees who use swipe-in cards to circumvent security are increasingly asked to show their IDs.

Church near McCormick Place offers NATO protestors refuge

CRAINS

A church just outside the expected NATO Summit security perimeter has agreed to let protestors camp on its lawn overnight during the event. Trinity Episcopal Church is at 125 E. 26th Street, adjacent to Michigan Avenue and about two blocks south of McCormick Place, where the May 20-21 summit will be held.

NATO summit planners give business owners communications center

Officials say updates, advisories will keep businesses apprised of street closures, locations of demonstrations

TRIBUNE // Kathy Bergen

Chicago's host committee for the NATO summit on Tuesday launched a business communications center to provide security and traffic updates to area enterprises, some of which are feeling jittery. The rollout was announced at a briefing for the Illinois Restaurant Association, where some downtown restaurateurs expressed fears customers would avoid downtown during the days leading up to and including the May 20-21 international summit at McCormick Place.

Feds to impose 'no-fly zone' for small planes during NATO summit

SUN TIMES // FRANK MAIN

The government is warning small-plane pilots they could be shot down if they violate a no-fly zone in Chicago during the NATO summit. The Federal Aviation Administration has issued a flight advisory for May 19 to 21, banning non-commercial aircraft from flying within 10 nautical miles of downtown Chicago and below 18,000 feet.

Albright still deals with 'massive surprise' of roots

SUN TIMES // LYNN SWEET

When former Secretary of State Madeleine Albright learned her Czech parents were Jewish — at the age of 59 — she started a journey that led to her discovering 25 relatives — including three grandparents — died in the Nazi Holocaust. I talked with Albright on Tuesday about the Chicago NATO Summit — she is a co-chair of the Chicago NATO Host Committee — her exploration of her Jewish heritage, recounted in her new book, Prague Winter, A Personal Story of Remembrance and War, 1937-1948 and the years she lived in Chicago —when her then husband was a reporter for the Chicago Sun-Times.

NATO summit may leave Chicago's restaurants hungry

CRAINS // KATE MACARTHUR

Though the upcoming NATO summit will have a purported $128 million economic impact on Chicago, it looks like a sales bust for the city's biggest restaurants. City hotels are expected to pick up the bulk of revenue from the May 20 event, restaurateurs predict. For their own businesses, dining proprietors expect the event to be more for show than an actual moneymaker.

May Day protests might provide preview of what NATO will bring

SUN TIMES // STEFANO ESPOSITO, MAUDLYNE IHEJIRIKA AND NATASHA KORECKI

Railing against corporate greed, banner-waving protesters briefly blocked the entrance to a downtown bank, and even ventured into the middle of traffic-clogged streets during Tuesday's May Day rally. But if the 1,000 or so marchers offered a foretaste of what the city can expect during the NATO summit later this month, police could have few complaints.

May Day marches, rallies do little to disrupt work day in Loop

TRIBUNE // Jeff Coen, David Heinzmann and Ryan Haggerty

Occupy protesters, anti-war demonstrators and union supporters staged a series of May Day rallies and marches today with little disruption to the work day in Chicago's business district. Protest groups and authorities alike saw the events as a tune-up for the May 20-21 NATO summit, which is expected to bring much bigger crowds seeking the spotlight at the gathering of world leaders.

May Day Protesters Block Bank Entrances Before Rally Through Loop

WBBM // NANCY HART

About 75 Occupy Chicago protesters held sit-ins outside at least two Bank of America branches in downtown Chicago on Tuesday, before joining a much larger protest rally and march through the Loop in honor of May Day.

The Occupy Chicago protesters teamed up with about 800 to 1,000 protesters in Union Park, at 1501 W. Randolph St., for a pro-union and immigration rally, before marching to Federal Plaza in the Loop.

On 5/16/12 at approximately 0555 hours, SSO [b)(6)(b)(7)(C)] reported that the Chicago Police Department (CPD) responded to East Hyde Park Blvd southwest of the President's residence due to graffiti on the street barricades which stated "Violence is Weak "

The Chicago Department of Transportation (CDOT) replaced the barrier. CPD reviewed footage from the video camera mounted on East Hyde Park Blvd for investigative leads. Upon review, the video footage revealed that an unknown male was observed applying an unknown substance onto the barriers from approximately 0520 to 0535 hours. No vehicle information was obtained and no additional investigative leads were developed.

The incident received local media attention that inaccurately reported the graffiti was written with fecal matter.

This incident will be forwarded to Region 2 for appropriate follow-up.

RALLY & MARCH

Say NO to the NATO/G8 War & Poverty Agenda!

12 Noon, Sunday, May 20
Petrillo Band Shell
corner of Jackson & Columbus
Grant Park, Chicago

Across the US, millions of people are struggling to keep their heads above water, fighting against the effects of the economic crisis caused by the 1% - the bankers of Wall Street and their political parties. Our communities are fighting to stay in their homes, keep their schools open, keep healthcare available, and to defend their jobs from cutbacks.

At the same time, 10s of millions across the world, in over 130 countries, are facing U.S. troops in their countries that they don't want. The U.S. / NATO wars in Iraq and Afghanistan have expanded to Pakistan, Yemen and Somalia, with a record number of people killed last year in Afghanistan, the longest war in U.S. history. And now, nuclear-armed Israel and the U.S. threaten war against Iran and Syria, Israel steadily disposes Palestinians of their land, and along with other U.S. allies, commits gross human rights abuses.

On May 20, NATO will meet in Chicago, invited by President Obama and Mayor Emanuel. The billions that the U.S. spends on NATO and its wars are not only attacks on peoples abroad, but also on the lives and living standards of the 99% at home.

Since the summits were announced, Mayor Emanuel and the Chicago Police have carried out a campaign to intimidate protesters. They lie about us, claiming that protests lead to violence. In fact, the main source of violence in the world today is the wars being waged by NATO and the US.

We will march during the NATO meeting to deliver our message: Jobs, Housing, Healthcare, Education, Our Pensions, and the Environment: Not War! Tens of thousands will be in the streets that day for a family friendly rally and march, with cries so loud they will be heard across the globe. We will be in the streets that day to fight for our future, and speak out against the wars and their cutbacks designed to benefit the 1% at the expense of the 99% of the world.

Join us!

Occupy 2.0: Protesters Go High-Tech

By JESSICA FIRGER

Occupy Wall Street's open-air encampments and spontaneous demonstrations through New York City have been largely organized through Facebook, Twitter and other social media. Now, protesters said, those tools are no longer enough.

As the anti-corporate protest marks six months since its birth inside a Lower Manhattan park, a look back at the photos tracking the movement's development in New York City.

A team of about 30 people has been working through the winter months, developing high-tech tools to help coordinate demonstrations that protesters will execute this spring and summer. From Internet maps tracking police barricades to a fundraising website, protesters said the technology will help sustain the movement as it moves away from a collection of encampments and spontaneous protests—an Occupy 2.0, they said.

"Most of the technology we're working on enhances how we work together. We're trying to change the way things are done," said Andrew Mallis, 34 years old, who works as a web strategist and developer. "We're trying to build under the assumption that the world is a better place and we need better tools to work together."

Some of these tools—mapping, high-definition live-stream video, mass email list-serves and secure mobile Wi-Fi networks—may be used Saturday when protesters have planned demonstrations to highlight the six-month mark since Sept. 17, when Occupy Wall Street first took over Zuccotti Park in Lower Manhattan. And they'll likely be used during a series of protests planned for across the country on May 1.

Calling themselves the movement's "technology operations working group," the team includes software developers, computer programmers, web code writers and social media experts. Most live in New York, communicating by email and working in their spare time. Some members have taken on projects that require more than 20 hours of work each week.

The first of the group's more than 25 projects was carried out in September at Zuccotti Park: a "Freedom Tower" that made secure Wi-Fi available to all protesters and visitors. It was destroyed during when New York City police raided the encampment on Nov. 15.

A widely anticipated tool the team is still developing would allow demonstrators access to an online protest map of sorts that would help coordinate Occupy's roving, unlicensed street protests.

Using their smart phones, protesters can tip off others to NYPD presences during rallies, take photos of a skirmish or send a video of a flashmob, all of which is documented in real time. The information would be flagged geographically on the map.

Devin Balkind, a 25-year-old web developer who helped create the mapping technology, said a version of it would be kept private so protesters could talk to each other and stay on course during marches, without authorities monitoring their communication.

Drew Hornbain, a 25-years-old freelance graphic artist on the team, called their work the creation of an "alternative network" to help Occupy groups plan events. It's not that Twitter and Facebook, social media tools that built the movement, are ineffective, he said. But they have begun to present drawbacks.

The technology group coordinated an online email petition calling on the Manhattan District Attorney's Office to cease in its attempt to gain access to the Twitter account of a man who posted about a protest during which arrests were made. A person with knowledge of the matter said prosecutors were requesting only public information from the account, such as past tweets.

"The data is an incredibly powerful tool for governments and corporations to go after people," said Charles Lenchner, a 42-year-old digital strategy consultant who lives in Brooklyn.

Matthew Lepacek, 30 years old and a self-described Libertarian pseudo-journalist hacker, said the group is also close to completing a fund-raising site similar to Kickstarter, an important project since Occupy Wall Street is nearly out of money.

The new fund-raising site will largely function under an earmark system, in which donors may choose the specific project they wish to support and a small percentage of that money will go directly to the General Assembly, the main deliberative body of the group.

Most of the software is open-source, meaning the code is published, and the group has a few ideas in testing, including a remote control that would allow protesters around the country to participate and vote in meetings.

There is also a website being developed similar to Facebook that would be used to link protesters in different cities and share information.

"In order to be able to move ideas forward it can't really be encapsulated by pressing a 'like' button," Mr. Mallis said.

A version of this article appeared Mar. 17, 2012, on page A17 in some U.S. editions of The Wall Street Journal, with the headline: Occupy 2.0: Protesters Go High-Tech.

All-

A man was seen photographing our motorcade tonight. He was interviewed by CPD and said he was working with Occupy. My report is below. Feel free to call with any questions.

I have copied SA (b)(6),(b)(7)(C) of the USSS. (b)(6) (b)(7)(C) (b)(7)(E)

(b)(6)(b)(7)(C)

May 20, 2012

Reporting Agent (RA): SA (b)(6)(b)(7)(C)

At approximately 0045 hours RA was (b)(7)(E) on Mies Vander Rohe Way at E. Pearson Ave. RA noticed a thin white male in a light-colored t-shirt and shorts. The male was later identified as (b)(6)(b)(7)(C) d.o.b. (b)(6)(b)(7)(C)

RA saw (b)(6)(b)(7)(C) walk northbound on Mies Vander Rohe Way. When (b)(6)(b)(7)(C) reached E. Chestnut St. he turned and began photographing RA and the motorcade. (b)(6)(b)(7)(C) held his camera near his waist as he took the photographs.

RA spoke with nearby Chicago Police Department (CPD) personnel who said they saw (b)(6)(b)(7)(C) dropped off by a vehicle on a nearby street.

CPD followed (b)(6)(b)(7)(C) as he turned east on E. Delaware PI. CPD interviewed (b)(6)(b)(7)(C)

(b)(6)(b)(7)(C) told CPD he was from Shreveport and arrived in Chicago via Greyhound bus. (b)(6)(b)(7)(C) said he was working with members of the Occupy Chicago movement and he was taking photographs of police vehicles.

(b)(6)(b)(7)(C) was vague and evasive during the interview, and told CPD he did not remember the names of any of his Occupy associates, did not know the name of the man who drove him to the Ritz, and did not know where he was staying while in Chicago.

(b)(6)(b)(7)(C) had a strong body odor that was noticeable from several feet away.

(b)(6)(b)(7)(C) was carrying a Louisiana Drivers License, a boxcutter, binoculars, and a black Kodak digital camera.

The battery of the digital camera died during a review of the stored photographs.
Photographs seen included:

ACTA route map

CPD vehicles

Loading docks that appeared to be those used as a motorcade staging area at the Ritz.

ADS motorcade

During their interview of (b)(6)(b)(7)(C) CPD observed a male nearby wearing full camo fatigues with a black bandana around his neck. CPD felt that the male may have been associated with (b)(6)(b)(7)(C)

After the interview, (b)(6)(b)(7)(C) walked away, heading westbound on E. Chestnut St.

CPD personnel on scene included Detective (b)(6)(b)(7)(C) of the Area 4 Detective Division and Sergeant (b)(6)(b)(7)(C) of the Area 5 Detective Division.

End of report.

(U//FOUO//LES) Occupy Vest MCAC Daily Intelligence Briefing

2/17/12: The pictured vest was for sale on EBay for $299.99 dollars. The manufacturer, "The World Domination Club" out of Seattle Washington, appears to market the vest to Anarchist's, Rioters and other types of Protesters. The "Occupy Vest" boasts that it is Taser proof and Bean Bag resistant. The vest uses two Co2 cartridges that activate by pulling a rip cord by the wearer, which then inflates the vest, much like a life jacket. The now inflated vest will prevent or limit the kinetic energy being projected by a Bean Bag, Sage Gun round or I would assume Pr-24 or ASP baton used against a wearer of the vest. A video of the Occupy Vest can be found on YouTube with the search title "The Occupy Vest". Law Enforcement needs to be aware that this item of apparel exists, and if the manufactures expectations of the vest are true, it can pose a potentially dangerous situation for officers using any type of force against a person wearing the vest. A narrative describing the vest can be found on E-Bay. Source: Northern Virginia Regional Intelligence Center – Criminal Information Bulletin, 17 February 2012
